

Short Biography

Alex Rae-Grant, MD, FRCP(C)

Dr. Rae-Grant serves as director of education for the Mellen Center for MS and Medical Director for the Cleveland Clinic Center for Continuing Education. He is a professor of medicine (neurology) at Cleveland Clinic Lerner College of Medicine. He is author of multiple textbooks of neurology and multiple sclerosis. He received his undergraduate degree in biochemistry from Yale University and his Medical degree from the McMaster University Medical School. He obtained his neurology residency from the University of Western Ontario. He recently cochaired a panel developing quality measures for multiple sclerosis and serves on the National Quality Forum Neurology Standing Committee as well as the American Academy of Neurology Guideline Development Dissemination and Implementation Committee. He runs multiple live courses in neurology and multiple sclerosis for the Cleveland Clinic.