

JAUME SASTRE-GARRIGA, MD PhD

Dr. Jaume Sastre-Garriga received his MD at the University of Barcelona, his PhD at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona and trained as a neurologist at the Neurology Department, Hospital Vall d'Hebron. From June 2002 to December 2004 he was awarded a grant from the Spanish Ministry of Health and held a post as a clinical research fellow at the MRI and Neurorehabilitation units, Institute of Neurology, London. In 2004 and 2005 was awarded by the Spanish Society of Neurology (SEN) the prize for the best Spanish paper in an international neurological journal. From January 2005 to February 2007 Dr. Sastre-Garriga was Medical Director of the neurorehabilitation centres of the MS Foundation in Catalonia. Since March 2007 he works as a clinical neurologist at the Department of Neurology / Neuroimmunology, and Deputy Director of the MS Centre of Catalonia (Cemcat), Hospital Vall d'Hebron (Barcelona). He is a current member of the steering committee of MAGNIMS, the executive board of RIMS, the Editorial Board of the Multiple Sclerosis Journal and has recently been appointed Director of Revista de Neurología (Impact Factor 2015: 0,68). Dr. Sastre-Garriga is coauthor of 116 medline-indexed papers (2902 citations - h-index: 33 – SCOPUS).