

Speaker biography

Professor Carolyn A Young

Consultant Neurologist and Honorary Professor of Neurology at the Walton Centre NHS Trust

Professional Profile

Professor Carolyn Young co-ordinates major clinical and research programmes in multiple sclerosis (MS). Following her appointment as consultant neurologist in 1992, she set up the Walton Centre MS service. Internationally, Professor Young has acted as principal or chief investigator in over 70 major treatment trials in MS, and she is on the international Cochrane Board for Multiple Sclerosis.

In addition, Professor Young has served on a number of committees and advisory panels, including three years with the National Institute of Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) Appraisal Committee.