

Letizia Leocani is Associate Professor of Neurology at San Raffaele University, Director of Neurorehabilitation and Supervisor of the Experimental Neurophysiology Unit and of Magnetic IntraCerebral Stimulation center at Hospital San Raffaele Scientific Institute. She had a PhD in Human Physiology and she has been Research Fellow at the Human Motor Control Section of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda-USA. Her fields of interest involve translational validation of electrophysiological and OCT markers of neurological diseases and of treatment using non invasive brain stimulation.